

Corrections Corporation of America To Expand Two Facilities

March 29, 2007

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 29, 2007 - Corrections Corporation of America (NYSE: CXW) ("CCA", the "Company"), the nation's largest provider of corrections management services to government agencies, announced today its intention to expand two company-owned facilities based on the Company's expectation of increased demand from a number of existing state and federal customers.

In August 2006, the Company announced its intention to expand its 1,104-bed Tallahatchie County Correctional Facility in Tutwiler, Mississippi by 360 beds, which is expected to be completed during the fourth quarter of 2007. Based on anticipated demand from a number of state and federal customers, the Company expects to complete an additional 360-bed expansion. The second expansion is expected to be completed during the first quarter of 2008 at a total cost of approximately $17.0 million.

In addition, the Company announced its intention to expand its 767-bed Leavenworth Detention Center in Leavenworth, Kansas by 266 beds. CCA anticipates that construction will be completed during the second quarter of 2008, at an estimated cost of $22.5 million. This expansion will also include a renovation of the existing building infrastructure to accommodate higher detainee populations. The Leavenworth facility currently houses approximately 900 United States Marshals Service ("USMS") detainees.

CCA's President and CEO, John Ferguson stated, "We are pleased to continue our development program intended to provide just-in-time beds for our customers as their need for available bed space continues to grow. The two expansions represent the first beds underway in our previously announced effort to develop an additional 4,000 to 6,000 beds to stay ahead of the increasing demand from many of our customers. We continue to diligently explore other expansion and new development opportunities that we believe will drive future growth."
